GROWTH LEAD · TAKE-HOME ASSIGNMENT

Build Vihara's buyer growth engine

Show us how you read a market, find many ways to grow, connect them into one system, pick your bets, and ship something yourself.

About Vihara

An online marketplace where buyers bid on below-market homes: bank-owned, foreclosure and other distressed properties. Live in New Orleans, the Baltimore and DC suburbs, metro Detroit, upstate New York and California. See current listings on vihara.ai.

Auction.com, Xome and Hubzu spend heavily on Google. We can't outspend them, so we need smarter ways to reach the buyers they miss.

The challenge: clicks on cheap homes are easy. Finding buyers who can close (cash or approved financing), getting them to bid, and bringing in the next buyer without paying for each one is hard.

Use public information only. Assume a $3,000 test budget for 30 days, founders plus one inside sales rep, and about two developer days a month. Write down any other assumptions.

THE ASSIGNMENT

Five parts

A Diagnose the buyer journey

- Go through our site as a buyer. Map the path from first seeing Vihara to winning a bid, and rank the top three drop-off points.
- Pick the one metric you'd run growth on for 90 days, defined so our sales rep could count it.
- Build a simple funnel model (cost per lead → registration → active bidder → winner) and estimate the cost of one closed buyer.
- List the data you'd ask us for in week one.

B Map the growth system

- At least 15 growth plays, each with one line on what it is, who it reaches, and rough cost and effort. Cover paid, SEO, AI answer engines, content, community, partnerships, referral, product-led, sales follow-up, email/SMS, PR and automation.
- 3 plays our competitors aren't using, from real estate or outside it.
- One diagram showing how the plays feed each other (e.g. closed deal → buyer story → ads → new buyers → referrals), where it compounds and where it leaks.
- What runs every week: who owns it, which tools, what gets measured.
- A new-city launch from zero in 30 days using the system.

C 30-day growth sprint

Pick and rank 5–8 experiments. At least two must be viral or referral loops that cost close to nothing per buyer, and one must improve lead quality. For each: hypothesis, setup, metric, success threshold, cost, and when you'd kill it.

Then go deep on your best loop: who invites whom, the trigger, what each side gets, and the loop math. Show how it stays within real estate referral rules such as RESPA.

D Ship one asset

Pick one, ready to launch:

- A Meta ad for a real listing on vihara.ai: static mock-up or 20–30 sec video script, plus primary text, headline and targeting. It falls under Meta's Housing category (no age, gender or zip targeting) and should attract buyers who can close.
- Your referral loop's messages: one email, one SMS (160 characters max) and the landing page copy.

No fees or pricing terms in the copy. AI tools are fine; tell us where you used them.

E Pitch it to us · 5–6 min

Walk us through how you'd run it: what you launch first, in what order, and what's live by the end of week one.

WHAT TO SEND

Deliverables

1. A doc or deck (12 pages or slides max) covering parts A–C.
2. Your growth system diagram (any tool, even a photo of paper).
3. A spreadsheet with your plays, funnel model and loop math.
4. Your part D asset.

Reply to the email this came with within 72 hours. Shared links are fine with view access. Need more time? Ask before the deadline.

How we'll score it

AREA	WEIGHT	WHAT WE LOOK FOR
Understanding the market	20%	Sharp read of our buyers and journey, clear assumptions
Growth system	20%	Many specific plays, connected so they compound
Prioritizing and math	15%	Clear ranking, realistic costs, kill rules, fits $3K
Viral and referral loops	15%	Fits how property buyers behave; math and compliance covered
The asset	15%	We could launch it tomorrow
The pitch	15%	Clear, practical plan for what happens first
